Thomas “Tom” Strain leads Surgere’s technology organization to bring data-driven supply chain software solutions and platforms to market. Tom manages the organizations that developed Surgere’s BI Platform, which is available in Surgere’s software solutions and Surgere Insights, an internal portal for accessing reports and dashboards. He led the development of the software product management function to better manage and deliver products and services to market.

Tom has deep expertise in building high-performing teams that develop innovative software-as-a-service solutions and business intelligence platforms. Previously, he was the director of product management and business intelligence at OEConnection where he led the strategic development of business intelligence, retail ecommerce, and enterprise software solutions in the automotive market.

Tom holds a MS in Information Technology from the Florida Institute of Technology and a BS in Computer Information Systems from Saint Leo University. He is a member of Pragmatic Marketing Level 2 (PMC II).

Surgere is an industry pioneer leveraging IoT technology to revolutionize the supply chain. Surgere knows the challenges and has engineered innovative secure technology, patented software, and certified hardware to consistently deliver 99.9% data fidelity. Surgere expands visibility into the physical supply chain supporting many of the world’s leading industries.
